

Stéphane NGO MAI

Vice President for Strategy and Development of the University Nice Sophia Antipolis
President of the University Foundation

Professor of Economics

PhD in Economics 'Production and technological change, a theoretical contribution' (1991)

Research Accreditation, 'Self-organization and evolution in a knowledge-based economy' (2006)

Associate Professor, Institut National Polytechnique de Grenoble and Université Grenoble 2 (1991-1994)

Professor, Université Nice Sophia Antipolis since 1994

Scientific interests

Economics of knowledge and innovation, Digital economics, self-organized processes.

Teaching activities

PhD and Master's degree programs: Digital economics, Economics of innovation, Evolutionary economics

Undergraduate programs: Microeconomics, macroeconomics, international and European economics

Evaluation expertise

Coordination of and participation in many different Erasmus+ European programs such as Erasmus Mundus and Tempus in many different target countries (Russian research labs, PhD in Macedonia, PhD in Kosovo, Master's in Slovenia, Serbia, Montenegro, Bosnia, Quality insurance in Moldavia, Lituania, Training programs for European Tenders in Tunisia, Morocco, ...)

Creation of more than 10 undergraduate double degree programs (on- and off-line) in economics, in China, Vietnam, Russia, the Balkans, Morocco

Member of Editorial Board of Revue d'Economie Industrielle and Panoeconomicus

Member of Conseil National des Universités (2003-2006)

Referee for international journals: Economic bulletin, Journal of Evolutionary Economics, Structural change and Economic Dynamics, History of Economic Ideas

Participation in several research contracts (European Network of Excellence, CNRS, ANR, Observatoire Economique de la Défense, Region PACA)

Main Administration experience

Creation and Director of the Higher Institute of Economics and Management (ISEM) University Nice Sophia Antipolis (2010-2012)

Dean of the faculty of law, political sciences, economics and management (2006-2009)

Director of Department of Economics (2000-2003)

Creation and Direction of Master 'digital economics and e-business' (2000- 2015)

Distinctions

Chevalier in the Order of Academic Palms